To Whom it may concern,

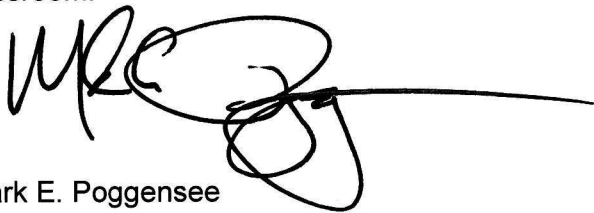

Emily Jacobson was a field study student in my eighth grade science classes during the spring semester of the 2014-2015 school year. Emily approached every day with enthusiasm. She often went above and beyond the expected in her preparation for this experience.

Emily taught several lessons during her experience. She completed lesson plans promptly so that we had the opportunity to review and improve the activities before they were taught. The students benefited from her planning and preparation.

Emily led class lessons and discussions in a way that convinced me that she had the respect and control of the students. Emily is a competent and caring individual who possesses all the right characteristics that will enable her to become a true professional.

Emily has a love of learning and a work ethic that will serve her well in the profession. In addition, these qualities make her an excellent role model for her students. I am sure that she will be a strong asset to any staff. I highly recommend her for this challenge.

Please contact me if you should have any further questions regarding Emily's experience in my classroom.
